Red vertical lines indicate 800 px wide area

The image shows a desktop search interface. At the top, there are two tabs: "YourSearch" (highlighted in red) and "Items Now Directory" (highlighted in yellow). Below the tabs, a message reads: "Looking for your item? Just type in the name, Zip code and/or Town and we'll find it for you". Below this message is a search input field with a magnifying glass icon and the placeholder text "Name and/or Zip or Town". The entire interface is set against a light blue background. Two vertical red lines are positioned on either side of the search input field, indicating an 800px wide area.
